

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. They were also a source of embarrassment and sadness when they refused to broadcast Nightline's reading of the names of our dead fighting people in Iraq. Such an act was unpatriotic and cowardly.

This group should have pay-for-view stations and not on the public airwaves free of charge!

The men running Sinclair are not good people. Their prostitution solicitation charges should tip you off as a start.

No more consolidation!
